IBEW INTERNATIONAL 39TH CONVENTION

Business Managers Message:

*By: Troy Benevides
Business Manager-Financial Secretary*

Aloha Sisters and Brothers,
For the past several months, I have been meeting with the Hawaiian Telcom Management team to discuss the various work issues that our members face. My team and I have been introducing ourselves and establishing relationships in an effort to move forward and help resolve many work related issues. I am confident that we are moving in the right direction and building a solid foundation for the future of our members.

Formal negotiations for a new contract is only a few months away. I can't emphasize the importance of submitting your 2017 negotiations survey that was published in April's edition of the Kelepona Leo; a copy is also available on our website. Sharing the issues that are most important to you, and what you will stand up and fight for, is a vital part of the process. It also helps the bargaining team in aligning common goals and bargaining strategies. Every member plays a crucial role in our contract negotiations. You can do so in any number of ways; staying involved, being knowledgeable on what's happening, seeking out information via unit meetings, shop stewards, and our website. Be a positive source of information in your work group. Wear your union logo items on Fridays or the color blue and show your pride and solidarity!

Over the past few months, union members, my staff, and I, have been actively involved in supporting various charitable organizations. The Aloha United Way, held its kickoff campaign by sign waving at Tamarind Park with a great turn out of supporters. The Maui county members have been diligently servicing their community by supporting various charitable events featured in this issue, as well as all the other outer island members.

Mahalo to everyone for their continued support and I encourage all members to stay engaged and informed by attending their monthly unit meeting. Please stop by the union office and get to know the team that is here for you!

In Unity

39th International Convention:

By: Andie Kahakui
Assistant Business Manager -Financial Secretary

First, I would like to thank the Local 1357 membership for giving me the opportunity to attend and actively participate in the deliberation and decisions made at the 39th IBEW International Convention held this past September 19-23, 2016 in Saint Louis, Missouri. The IBEW International Convention is held every 5 years and it is the single most important gathering of IBEW delegates across both nations (U.S. and Canada) as they will set the path and direction into the future for all our members and their families. Business Manager Troy Benevides, President Darren Sakai, and I, proudly attended each and every session with the sole purpose of providing our Local 1357 a voice and to ensure we insert ourselves into critical discussions affecting our working families back home in Hawaii. International Representative Harold Dias, Jr., Troy, Darren, and I along with delegates from our sister locals 1186 and 1260, made sure Hawaii was represented on every amendment, resolution, and law brought to the convention for discussion and vote. The delegation reviewed, discussed and voted on many issues including the Code of Excellence Program, RENEW/Next Gen Council, New Member Orientation, and the Support of Call Centers in U.S./Canada.

While in Saint Louis, we witnessed the opening of “The Henry Miller Museum,” which was an inspirational event during the trip. In 1890, Henry Miller was a lineman in St. Louis and he along with nine other linemen together, set out to organize electricians to unite and stand-up against low wages and unsafe working conditions. Electricians came together and elected Henry Miller as the President of their group and held their first convention in November 1891. They drafted a Constitution, Bylaws, and an emblem, in which the National Brotherhood of Electrical Workers was born. Local 1 and its members in St. Louis, purchased the boardinghouse where Henry Miller lived and transformed the modest home into a living monument to the founding of our Brotherhood. President Darren Sakai was chosen to write a message from Local 1357 which was then placed on the wall of the boardinghouse; sealed and dedicated to the entire IBEW membership. It was here that the journey began and there is still a lot more to do; there is no stopping now. The next International Convention will be held in the year 2021.

I thank you once again for the opportunity the membership has given me and encourage everyone to get involved and participate in the process. Please take the time to thank one another for a good day; be appreciative for what you have as others are not so fortunate, and give back to your community in any way possible.

~Andie

Aloha Brothers and Sisters,

I hope you all had a great summer! In August, our local union held a Leadership Conference on Oahu. I would like to thank Troy and his staff for organizing such a great event and hope you all enjoyed it as much as I did. Many thanks to Scott Barber and his staff for their participation and hospitality. I would also like to thank our Board Members, Shop Stewards, Unit Chairs, Recorders, and to all who participated.

Negotiations are coming up in less than a year. If you have any issues pertaining to our contract, please fill out a survey form and send it into the union office. Please attend your unit meetings and encourage all our brothers and sisters to attend and be informed. We need to stand together in unity to fight for a fair contract. The Executive Board and myself, would like to wish you all a Happy Holiday Season.

Be safe, stay informed, in solidarity!

Darren Sakai
Executive Board President

Hafa Adai! June brought with it unit 10 visitation to Saipan. Business Manager Troy Benevides and I, went to conduct steward & unit officer training. I am happy to report that our members our doing well, and that training was a success. Ten months after typhoon Soudelor hit, recovery and restoration are still in progress until today. Many large trees are still down, some smaller communities still do not have water and or power 24 hours a day, homes and buildings are still in various stages of reconstruction, as is their economy. Our members working for IT&E experience many common issues as our members in Hawaii with challenges surrounding communication between departments, work load, scheduling, and attendance issues. Great progress was made on outstanding issues and much of what was brought to light was resolved. In spite of all the challenges faced by the unit 10 members, they are still thriving. We are so proud of the officers who have stepped up and the increase in meeting attendance and involvement. The work they have done deserves acknowledgement.

In solidarity,

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE SHOP STEWARD! Your union Shop Steward is not just another work colleague but rather someone who has an important role as a union representative. The steward is the one person in the union structure with whom the members are in contact with and looked upon as leaders in the department. Their views on such matters as politics, and community problems will influence people around them. A good steward practices dedication, and must constantly participate in a process of continuing education, and establishing great relationships. The steward who exercises wise leadership and takes a constructive attitude toward the daily problems of labor and management relations, makes a substantial contribution to morale, production, and the development of sound unionism. In an effort to educate the shop stewards in their role as leaders, our local union held its 2016 Leadership Conference. The two day session included guest speakers from the Hawaiian Telcom Management team, International Representative Harold Dias, Jr., and the very charismatic, Dr. Puette. The union leaders were provided with an informational training about the roles and responsibilities of each leadership position. The session ended with a motivating and exciting learning experience about the American Labor Movement and Unionism.

Today, like every day is a good time to remind all union members what we should be doing, how to be good members, how to support our union, what our future holds, and how you can shape our future....

As far as what the union does for our members and what our members can do for the union:

UNION...

- Does not only negotiate our contract, but enforces our CBA.
- Constantly protects its members from unfair discipline.
- Works to strengthen our membership.
- Continually working on better working conditions, training, safety, compensation, and benefits.

By: Jody Medeiros
Executive Board Vice President

And so much more....

MEMBERS...

- Union belongs to you and I, the first three letters in union. Therefore it's YOUR business!
- For a business to survive it needs all of its owners (members) to participate.
- The union administration and staff cannot do it alone, they need our support!
- Union strength is determined by how many members are truly involved!
- Involvement can be as little as staying informed and going to your unit monthly meeting, and bringing a new member or a member that hasn't come for a while.
- Wear your union shirt every Friday or become a committee member or officer for your unit, or even become a shop steward. Get involved in your units community service programs, etc.
- Be not only a good member, but a valuable employee, become an asset to the company not a liability!

And there is much more....

BE PREPARED.....

- Our contract will expire soon, as a member what should I do?
- Ask the union office and staff on how you can help.
- Attend your unit meetings and stayed informed.
- Be ready to fight and if necessary ready to strike.
- Manage your finances by saving for three months of no-work or more; the time to save is NOW.

And there will be more....

The above mentioned are not scare tactics, its REALITY! So my sisters and brothers, together we can overcome any challenge; separately we are doomed to fail. Let's become the union all other unions will envy and want to emulate!

"LIVING LOKAHI"

The Hawaiian word Lokahi means harmony and balance. Therefore, "living lokahi" can be viewed as a way of living by giving, caring for others, and being humble about life in general. As we all know, the cost of living in Hawaii can be tough at times. Even though we spend many years responsibly working to support our families and planning for the future, hardships can fall upon anyone at any given time. The local union continues to support many charitable organizations that provide assistance to the needy and to those who experience hardships. Recently, the National Association of Letter Carriers held their annual food drive to help fill the shelves of food banks across the nation. The local postmen collected non-perishable food items that were left near the mailboxes of many people who participated and delivered them to the Hawaii Food Bank. The program was a success and the call of duty for volunteers to help pack and sort out the abundance of items was needed. Leave it up to our union sisters and brothers who took action and showed up to partake in this great cause! Awareness and participation is key to events such as this, let's spread the word and look forward to making next year's drive an even bigger success!

A BIG MAHALO to unit two Maui county union members for their dedication to the community and the support of various charitable organizations. Recently, Maui County Executive Board members, Jody Medeiros, Craig Pruse, and other volunteers, took part in the American Cancer Society's annual Relay for Life; an event that impacts so many lives by bringing awareness to communities. The team also organized a beach cleanup at Kealia Coastal Boardwalk with a great turnout that even included members of the Maui Hawaiian Telcom management team. The day ended with a fellowship BBQ, filled with laughter, cheer, and the building of great relationships.

Unit two also organized the first kickball game for the enjoyment of their members and families. The turnout was great with over thirty members who participated in two games willingly, sustaining minor injuries, along with much fun and laughter! Once again, the day ended with a casual horse shoe tournament and an awesome cookout.

"LIVING LOKAHI"

The Labor of Love project is an event that is sponsored and supported by the AFL-CIO unions and its members. The project was created to strengthen and bring the community together to create a stronger Hawaii. The main focus of these events is to help communities and families in economic or personal crises. This year's project focused on gathering volunteers to help rebuild and renovate the various schools around the islands. It was fortunate for Wailuku Elementary School to be chosen as this year's award recipient, in which a turnout of over 200 volunteers, comprised of adults and students, who showed up to get to work. The school needed some new paint for classroom doors, railings, and cubbies. The installation of light defusing window shades, security screens on the computer room and other campus improvements were also done. An estimated $45,316 in donations and in-kind gifts, along with an additional $16,000 donated by another organization, brought the total value of the project to a little over $62,000 for Wailuku Elementary School. On the following Monday morning after all renovations were completed, the school held a "Mahalo Assembly" thanking the supporters of this event for their contributions.

Three years ago, here on the island of Oahu, Waimanalo Elementary and Intermediate School was also fortunate to receive contributions as well. Over 100 volunteers from the Honolulu area, showed up at 6:00AM to perform various campus renovations. 18 unions helped raise more than $18,000 in monetary and in-kind donations. The following week after the completion of the project, the school held a "Thank you" assembly for the volunteers and was also presented with a check from the AFL-CIO President, for $18,500. To show their appreciation, students held hand-made signs that said, "Hawaii Unions No Ka Oi," which translates to "Hawaii Unions-The Best."

SAFETY CORNER:

With the holiday season right around the corner, we need to remember that safety is even more important than ever. This is the time when there is a significant increase in traffic on the road, people shopping at the stores, and all the holiday hustle and bustle that occurs. People tend to get restless and impatient which can lead to unsafe practices.

This time of the year is also considered the rainy and flu season. With members on 4/10 shifts, we need to keep ourselves better rested to be more focused while on duty and to avoid catching the "bug". The rainy weather will definitely increase the work load and create hazardous working conditions, so practicing safe work habits is highly recommended.

Sisters and Brothers, remember to always apply critical thinking methods before acting upon any job request. Every job entails duties that can impose dangerous situations and cause serious injuries if someone is not paying close attention. When out on the field, guard yourselves from accidental situations and exercise safe practices such as the use of proper signage, fluorescent cones when obstructing traffic, hard hats, safety vests, goggles, steel-toed shoes, and harnesses when up in the bucket.

When leaving the base yards, be sure to have all of your personal protection equipment readily available for any given situation. When was the last time you reviewed your personal protection equipment inventory?

Pictured above, Brother Gordon Fuentes not only practices safe work habits, but also represents the company with a positive attitude and a genuine smile. He is geared up for safety and ready to tackle whatever it is that needs to be done! When asked about the importance of safety, Brother Fuentes replies, "The importance of safety is vital because if someone is not paying attention, it could lead to life threatening situations and we should be out there taking care of each other."

LIVE HEALTHY

Living healthy can also be considered as a safety practice; unhealthy living can lead to illnesses, disease, and pose risks on one's physical job duties. When someone is ill, it affects not only their quality of life, but impacts the company and other work colleagues as well. Loss in working hours and job completion can cause an interruption to deadlines and service to customers. Meeting physical health requirements is a vital part of safety as employees need to perform various duties such as, climbing up step ladders, bending, and standing for long periods at a time. Millions of workers across America suffer from work related-illnesses due to unsafe work practices. Exposure and the handling of chemicals and other substances is one of the leading cause of work related-illness. Everyone should understand and know how to work safely without risk to health. Familiarize yourself with work hazards and risks, report unsafe working conditions, and receive all the training the company provides in order to comply with common safe practices. Remember to practice safe work habits at all times and prevent risks to one's health; safety is the lock and you are the key!

Preparing Leaders
Shaping Futures
Making a Difference

Aloha Sisters and Brothers,

Thank you to all who voted in the general election via absentee ballot or early walk in. Although many of us may not have voted for the President-Elect, we need to understand that the election is over, and do our part as Americans and support our new leaders. We will not make America successful unless we are able to heal this fracture in our nation that this campaign has caused. Now is not the time to throw in the towel and just be along for the wild ride to come, but the time to stay informed, active, and do our duty as citizens and hold our elected leaders accountable. Recently in a brief speech, President Obama stated among many things, that he and former President George W. Bush also had major differences eight years ago, and were able to manage a successful transition. As he expects to do the same with Mr. Trump, President Obama reminded the country, like I am sincerely sharing with you today, "we are all on the same team." Let's keep our minds and hearts on the bigger picture and stay positive!

In Solidarity,

Troy Benevides
Business Manager-Financial Secretary
